Doctor of Ministry (D.Min.)
The Doctor of Ministry (D.Min.) degree is a post-graduate degree, the highest professional degree obtainable for women and men involved in vocational Christian ministry. The goal of the Program is to provide an advanced education to help proven leaders to think biblically, theologically, contextually and critically as they engage in action research.

Action research is a participatory process concerned with developing practical knowledge in the pursuit of worthwhile human purposes. Integrated with learning situated within authentic activity, context and culture, ITC D.Min. students experience best practices of mentoring and prophetic responses.

Because the program involves significant research and demands a high commitment, scholarship and professionalism, our graduates are actively serving as senior pastors; teachers; authors; consultants; traveling speakers; theologians; mission agency executives; college deans; non-profit program directors; denominational executives; counselors, and ecumenical executives.

Students who earn the D.Min. Degree will:

- Demonstrate a deeper passion for God in relation to the practice of a liberating and transforming spirituality.
- Apply theological and theoretic knowledge to the practice of ministry to address challenging and complex issues related to their professional vocation.
- Apply intercultural skills required to serve as religious leaders in a variety of vocational and professional settings.
- Demonstrate a comprehensive understanding and analysis of diversity, and social and environmental justice for the church, society and global community.
- Conduct an original action based research project and publish for the academy and church to instruct others.
- Participate in one intensive week of study on campus per semester followed by online studies with mentors, faculty and cohorts.
